Online Safety & Etiquette

Once school is out, many students spend more time outdoors, hanging out with friends, and visiting new and interesting places. But a lot of students also use their extra free time to go online. Because of this, we would like to remind parents about the importance of teaching our students about online safety and proper etiquette.

It is critical that parents closely monitor their child's online usage and make sure they never share their full name, address, school, phone number or passwords. They should also never send photos to strangers or open anything a stranger sends to them.

Students, especially in middle school, live digital lives. They spend their time texting, social networking, uploading photos and posting comments. Parents should discuss cyber-bullying (the use of the Internet or other digital devices to send or post negative messages, images, or video clips about others) with their children. Let them know the rules for interacting with people in real life also apply when they are interacting online. It is important for students to learn that their comments will rarely stay private, and that once something is posted online, it can leave a digital "footprint" forever, even if students think they have deleted it.

More information and safety tips can be found at www.InternetSafety101.org.

Two More Awards for Repetto School

Repetto School recently added two more prestigious awards to our collection. Thank you to all the teachers, students, staff and family members who helped us earn these awards.

The Alliance for a Healthier Generation has named Repetto School a bronze level recipient of their National Healthy Schools award. This is the third time in six years that Repetto has been recognized by this organization for meeting their benchmarks for school wellness. We know that healthy children learn better, which is why we incorporate health and fitness lessons through our Harvest of the Month program, annual Super Bowl (giant salad) event, Walk-to-School Day, and various nutrition awareness campaigns through our student Nutrition Advisory Council (NAC). Former president Bill Clinton will present this award to Repetto School next fall in Little Rock, Arkansas.

Our second award was from the California Business for Education Excellence (CBEE). CBEE identifies and recognizes higher performing schools in the state through their Honor Roll School program, especially schools that are successful in closing the achievement gap. Repetto School will receive a banner from CBEE to proudly display on our campus and will also be recognized at the May 14th Board of Education meeting.

Last 2012-13 Citizens of the Month Honored

Last month, we recognized 40 students for demonstrating "Interpersonal Competence." These students have empathy, sensitivity, and friendship skills. We look forward to honoring all our Good Citizens at the May 22nd end-of-the-year celebration.
